

This is a complex case that we may discuss in class, but analysis should begin with recognition of a hemopericardium (red arrow) compressing the right heart.

